REDANDSLOW

Serious Fun is releasing its first new material since the release of the Boston Rock & Roll Anthology, Vol 4 on VAR International. Following up on the success of Pasted on Pout and Arrest My Heart from that LP, the band has released Cambridge Nights and Arrest My Heart as digital only singles. They are followed by this remastered digital single release, and an EP of previously unreleased mixes of seven high-energy songs will be released November 4, 2014.

Pasted on pout is the day-glo '80s story about seeing the girl of your dreams, but realizing she's just on a screen. With Doug Osborne on guitar and vocals, Stephen Wild on bass, and Liz DiSessa on drums, Serious Fun blazed a trail through the clubs of Boston such as The Paradise, The Rat, and Bunrattys. Their music was played on WBCN, WFNX and WERS, and was high on the CMJ charts. They recorded the basic tracks for these songs at Baker Street Studios in Watertown with Andy Mendelson.

Doug Osborne is releasing these in time for his live solo dates in the Los Angeles area. Doug plans to tour to support the release next year of his solo album, tentatively titled Love Takes a Long Time. The Serious Fun releases will fit on modern Rock radio formats with its unique blend of high energy music, blazing guitar, and heartfelt lyrics.
